

Margaret Palacios Is Fifth Sister to Wear Bride's Crown

An aurora borealis crown which had been worn by her four sisters their wedding days, was donned by lovely Margaret Palacios to complete her bridal ensemble before she slowly walked to the altar of St. Emydius Catholic Church to pledge her future with Lawrence Caballero.

An enthralled throng of 250 close friends and kinsmen gathered to witness the 12 o'clock noon nuptial Mass performed by the Rev John Folliard.

The principals are the children of Mrs. John Palacios of Compton and Mr. and Mrs. Sotero Caballero, 7404 Howery, South Gate.

Sheerest organdy and lace were lovingly fashioned into a gown with a hint of the Victoria era noted in the high neckline. Sleeves were long and fitted. The A-line skirt was of sweet simplicity and a graceful train was made more attractive with insets of lace. Billows of sheer illusion veiling wafted from the glittering crown, worn as something old by one of this season's most beauteous brides.

Raleigh Palacios escorted his sister to the altar where Lawrence waited with Father Folliard and Thomas Caballero, best man. The latter shared responsibility for the marriage rings with Mrs. James Tellers, one of Margaret's sisters. The matron of honor's formal gown of vibrant cherry pink chiffon was underscored with matching taffeta. This was created in the empire mood.

Ruffled sleeves were eye-catchers and a pink veil matching the dress completed Mrs. Tellers' ensemble and she carried pink carnations with the addition of baby breath.

Patricia Caballero, Martha Falcon, Patricia Landwehr and Anne Snook wore replicas of Mrs. Tellers' gown and all four carried bouquets copied from the honor attendant's.

Lisa Guerra, Margaret's niece, captured the spotlight for a brief moment as she showed the bride and her brother the way to the altar. Lisa's frock was white and full length and she carried pink carnations. Her escort was Michael Cabellero, nephew of the bridegroom who enacted the ringbearer role.

Guests had been ushered to places in pews by Dale Kirstine, David Palacios, James Tellers and Robert Flippin before Mrs. Palacios, in turquoise silk, and Mrs. Caballero, in a blue lace and chiffon coat dress, took their seats of honor. Both wore white orchids.

The mothers flanked their children at the reception hosted in Lynwood's Bateman Hall where guests enjoyed a buffet luncheon before the newlyweds departed to honeymoon in the Riviera Hotel Las Vegas.

Dana Miranda tended the guest book and Bonnie Williams took care of gifts at the reception. Among out-of-towners were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Aso, the bridegroom's grandparents, and the Bill Affonsos, all of Los Banos; Barbara Affonso, San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Beltran, Lancaster.

The young couple has returned home and settled in their new apartment at 10731-H Barlow in Lynwood.

Margaret, an alumna of Dominguez High School, is a secretary with Bennett-Bowen Distributors. Her husband, a graduate of California State College in Long Beach, is a reading teacher with the Los Angeles City School District.

Committees Meet to Plan

A meeting in the home of Mrs. Alan Villa, Bryson PTA's third vice president in charge of membership, drew members of her committee as well as arts and posters, newsette and press chairmen.

Plans are well under way for Bryson's membership drive this fall. Posters will be made by John Derencin and Neil Whiteford. Newsettes and flyers will be sent home by Mrs. Gilbert Sosack and Mrs. Bernard Johnson inviting new members to join the unit.

At the meeting were Mrs. Joseph Bulak, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Whiteford, Mrs. Gilbert Sosack, Mr. and Mrs. John Derencin, Mrs. Leo King, and Mrs. Hal Nielson, president of Bryson PTA.

District PTA Cites Career Of Two Decades

Mrs. William A. Young, president of Los Angeles Tenth District PTA, presided at a luncheon honoring Dr. Harriett B. Randall, director health education and health services branch, Los Angeles City School District, whose retirement is effective July 1.

Attending the luncheon were executive board members of Tenth District PTA and spec-

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE CABELLERO
... Honeymoon departure

Bill Cox photo

Butterfield Country Family Camping Is Great Fun for All

Families having fun together by the score---

And the rates? Sites March 15 through Oct. 14 are $5 a inquiries directed primarily to church members will be on

EAST

WEST

SOUTH GATE PRESS

PUBLISHED EVERY SUNDAY AND THURSDAY AT 3425 E. FIRESTONE BOULEVARD, SOUTH GATE, CALIFORNIA 90280

50th YEAR, NO. 64

SUNDAY, AUGUST 9, 1970

Source: California Digital Newspaper Collection
<https://cdnc.ucr.edu/?a=c&c=CL1&sp=SGP>

10c A COPY